Around the City.
High tides.
The congregation of the M. E. church, now completing a neat building in the rear of their new church, which will be used for purposes.
The wind blew fresh from the north-east yesterday, and the children occasioned a demand for overcoats.
The Isaac, Scottish Prince, and Scottish Prince arrived yesterday. The Isaac, however, lumber laden, crossed today. The Scottish Prince cleared for Queenstown. The Isaac is out 22 days from Newcastle, N. S. W.
An alarm of fire at half-past six yesterday morning was caused by a building on the corner of Third and Commercial streets, which was fortunately put out without doing much damage. The fire alarm sounded a siren note of a bell and sounded as though some one was dead. Not one in ten heard it.
Among other signs of the times, the new signs being put up on Commercial street, Madison & Wheeler recently had a picture of a man in a suit, and yesterday the new firm of Estes & Cunningham had a very handsome sign put in position.
The sale of Alderbrook property yesterday afternoon at E. C. Holden's auction room, resulted in the disposition of sixty-two lots, bought partly by those who saw a good opportunity for realizing well on their investment in the future, and others who propose to build and settle. The property sold brought, in total, $4,160.
At the conclusion of the regular business at the meeting of the Essex Junior League last evening a handsome silver badge was presented to E. P. Hanks, chief engineer, A. P. D., on behalf of the troupe. It is a handsome affair, appropriately inscribed and was appropriately received by the chief who accepted the badge with the warning of the badge would be to him a reminder that his office required and only silent prompt but active duty.
The new pilot, William C. Fisher, came aboard Essex at Fisher's dock yesterday. Pilot Wood reports light and baffling winds all the way up. The vessel is a trim craft and will be ready to sail at a moment's notice. She displays good sailing qualities, and is in every respect satisfactory to her purchasers. While in San Francisco, Essex was chartered for a 75-ton boat to be built in exact accordance with instructions and capable of making thirteen knots an hour.

IMPROVEMENTS.—At Arndt & Feeder's machine shop considerable work is being done; the engine formerly used at the Astoria dock is being reconstructed, and other work is under way. A hatchway is being cut to lower machinery from the second story to the first, and a new office and a new office is being built south of the main building.
WATER LAYS.—It is reported that an organized band of river pirates at Portland are plundering the steamer and sailing vessels. The plan is to row alongside in a small boat and by the aid of a confederate aboard nip anything that may be "lying around loose," a coil of rope, a sailing vessel, block, etc., at that can be lugged off and sold for jugs. The Clack, E. T. Powell, Clack, Clack, Clack and others are reported to have lost articles in that manner.

SILAS SMITH'S WHALE.—About a week ago a whale came ashore on Clatsop beach and was captured by Nat Goodwin. He was about forty-five feet long, and from appearance was good for 1000 or 1200 gallons of oil. S. B. Smith having a little leisure time, he has been busy with his whale, and is now engaged in the oilierous manufacture of whale oil. He calculates that he will clear $500 on his purchase, as the oil yielded is of fine quality, and worth four bits a gallon.
DON'T WANT THEM.—When the Bohica arrived in last Tuesday afternoon, while still below the city a boat with four occupants put off to board her for the purpose of raising money for returning friends. Their boat having been found off they were obliged to drift with the tide, as it was impossible without a sail to make any headway against the strong ebb. Their non-return led to the rumor that all hands were drowned, but they arrived safe yesterday evening, having spent the night at Port Stevens. They haven't got through blessing the captain yet.

MARRIAGE.—The marriage of Mr. Hermann Wise and Miss Sarah Ostrook took place yesterday morning at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Fisher. The Rev. Dr. Bettelheim, of San Francisco, performed the marriage ceremony according to the Jewish rites. It was a private affair, none being present but a few intimate friends of the young couple. Mr. Wise came to this country from Germany about three years ago, and during his residence here has made many friends. The bride is a niece of Mr. Samuel Ostrook, of Oroville, California, and is an accomplished young lady.
INDIAN KILLED.—From Tillamook comes a report of a fatal encounter in which an Indian named King lost his life a short time ago. It seems that King and another Indian named Joe, Dunkel, a brother of the Dunkel that Talbot killed at Clatsop a few months ago, got into an altercation, in which King drew a knife and attempted to carve Dunkel, who naturally objected to such pointed attention. In the scuffle King stabbed Dunkel with the knife, and in the course of an hour, Dunkel was arrested, but it being found that he had acted in self-defense he was allowed to go free.

SENSE.—The scene at early dawn yesterday was one of great natural beauty. Fleecy veils of fog hung over the great river that flowed in silence underneath the starlit sky. The moon at its full swung westward behind the firs, and from the north floated light clouds toward the light at the Cape with the western morning star in brightness. The lowering scene in the eastern sky assumed a pearly gray that deepened into rose glow from which shot streams of yellow light. The setting moon faded into a ghost; the Cape light went out, and the ships in the stream glided in the level rays of the morning sun.

THE PACIFIC CAN COMPANY.
A New Departure in the Can Manufacture.
The salmon business on the Columbia has grown to vast proportions in comparison to the extent of operations when Wm. Hume began packing, seventeen years ago. Year by year the pack increases in value, season after season the appliances required entail numerous and costly stores of various goods, tin, solder, thruppers, boats, barrels, varnish, labels, and the annual invested, together with interest, insurance, etc., makes a considerable plant. Though it is to the interest of the cannerymen to carry on light a store from one season to another as they possibly can, yet a possible rise in prices of a "corner" on certain supplies compels them to take time by the forelock and lay in a large supply months before the goods may be required.
In an department of the business is this more manifest than in the can manufacture. A considerable space in every cannery is devoted to the manufacture of cans, and anyone who has ever been around one of these establishments knows the familiar sight of a row of Chinamen codd with a little charcoal furnace in front of him, and has doubtless followed the operation from the deft Mongolian who slices the tinplate to the twentieth man from whose hand the perfect can takes the finished can, and to every respect it is an A. C. can, etc., etc. The cans are well made, and very rarely are the complaints arising from any defect in that branch of manufacture, but any movement looking to a reduction in the price of furnishing the 50,000,000 cases that are filled at Astoria and vicinity every year will be of interest to those directly concerned.
It is now in contemplation to start a cannery in Astoria by the Pacific Can Company of San Francisco. The intention is to supply cans to the Columbia river canneries of better quality, and at a lower price than the cannery themselves manufacture them. It is a noticeable fact that there is under the present system an unavoidable waste; the refuse which comes from every cannery in the shape of scraps of rusty tin scraps can, it is said, be utilized by this company in the manufacture of other cans, and thus entail a great saving in that respect. Negotiations are now in progress looking to the starting of a factory to turn out the cans by wholesale.
The new cannery will be a great saving in that respect. Negotiations are now in progress looking to the starting of a factory to turn out the cans by wholesale.
The new cannery will be a great saving in that respect. Negotiations are now in progress looking to the starting of a factory to turn out the cans by wholesale.

ANOTHER INVENTION.—At the Astoria Iron Works the regular amount of work goes on. The foundry and machine shop are kept busy and a fine grade of work turned out. The latest invention of J. S. Smith's new brain is a cutting machine, which Asian has in getting in his old mill in constructing. It is a half circle of cast-iron to be set over a brick furnace, and to hold within solder, in which the cut is received. The cans are sliding down an inclined plane, are caught by transverse fingers and whirled around the setting ring until complete. It is sold and then dropped into a bin below. Thus far it is purely experimental, but there seems no reason why it shouldn't answer the purpose required. Last evening a New York party named Bliss was here looking up an alleged infringement of patent concerning a soldering machine in operation. The apparatus being built, it is intended to do the work in a better and consequently more satisfactory manner.

AR MEN'S SUNDAY-SCHOOL.
Almond-eyed Pupils Who Flirt With Their Teachers.
"C. A. T." Cat—"D. O. G." Dog. This is the way the Chinese laundryman of the period begins to learn English. He learns it out of a child's primer, and his teacher is generally a good-looking young woman who thinks it great fun to try and enlighten the heathen every Sunday afternoon.
The mission Sunday-schools for the heathen Chinese are nearly all taught gratuitously by young ladies under the direction of a superintendent. There are several of these mission schools in San Francisco.
The Chinamen want to learn English for commercial purposes, and he is very glad to learn it from the lips of a pretty girl.
It is a very amusing sight—this Chinese initiation school. Pupils, clad in tunics, embroidered togas with thick white soles, form a pleasing contrast to lungs, frizzes, Gainsborough hats, fluttering ribbons and black silk gowns. The girls take the matter seriously, from the school and religious standpoint, but the laundryman regards it in the light of a flirtation.
The same Chinamen who will stand up with the school and sing "Rock of Ages" in Chinese, looking as pious as a theologian, will sit down by his benevolent young teacher and lead the conversation round, as far as his English will carry him, to his worldly prospects and his ambition for matrimony.
One guy Chinaman, however, pointedly ignored his teacher that he was in pursuit of a wife—a "Meliann" wife. He bestowed numerous grimaces, winked, looked upon her, which she accepted because all the others did, in accordance with what she supposed to be Chinese custom. She took great pains with her pupils' English and taught him useful sentences, such as "Some American men are good; some American men are bad." In which original sentiment the youth heartily concurred.
This young man looked about sixteen and had the merriest little countenance and the most ingenious manner imaginable. But behind it lurked duplicity and craft.
"Teacher, I own a laundry—make fifteen dollars a week."
"Teacher—That is good, Lang; you will be rich under which they are so rich."
"Chin—You no call me Lang—my name Quong Lang. In China young lady no call man by last name."
"Teacher is silent, much amused at this report. Meditates over the fact that wisdom issues from the lips of babes, satchels and Chinamen."
"Chin—Teacher, my money in tomato can under board in back part of shop. Meliann man like to find it, oh?"
"Teacher suggests that it would be as well not to enlighten "Meliann man" on the subject.
"Chin—Teacher, own house in China—most nice house—now want wife—fair size, pretty money, etc. Pay dollars for wife—but too much for good-looking girl. Pay forty dollars—a good—ugly, common thing. For hundred dollars—first class wife. Teacher, you consider and find 'biver'."
"Teacher—"Quong Lang, I want you to read some English before it is time to sing the last hymn."
